

CHDI, INC.'S HUNTINGTON'S DISEASE
DRUG DISCOVERY EFFORT
ESTABLISHED IN LOS ANGELES

June 30, 2005 – Robert Pacifici, CSO-Drug Discovery & Development of MRSSI, announced today that CHDI Inc.'s Huntington's disease (HD) drug discovery and development effort will be managed from a new facility at 6080 Center Drive on the Howard Hughes Center campus in Los Angeles. The west coast location will be the base of operations for approximately twelve drug discovery professionals from the bi-pharmaceutical sector who will function as the strategic and tactical core to integrate a virtual (outsourced) effort.

Dr Pacifici said, "This new location will provide us with enabling proximity to key partners in the academic and biotechnology sectors here in California. Our strategic placement near Los Angeles International Airport will ensure our collaborators across the world will have easy access to and from our offices."

About CHDI, Inc. and High Q Foundation

CHDI Inc. and the High Q Foundation are non-profit organizations that share the mission of bringing together academia, industry, governmental agencies, and other funding organizations in the search for HD treatments.

CHDI, Inc. is pursuing a biotech approach to rapidly discover and develop drugs that prevent or slow Huntington's disease. Through collaborations with industrial and academic partners, CHDI, Inc., participates in all aspects of drug discovery and development from high throughput screening to preclinical development.
